“somewhereto_ has really opened up a host of opportunities for me around my passion.”

Joss Denham,

somewhereto_ is a nationwide project to help young people find the space they need to do the things they love within sport, culture and the arts. Their aim is to help improve the lives of thousands of young people and create thousands of success stories, today and in the future. This is Joss Denham’s story.

Joss needed a place to make and edit films, and has now completed his first project after somewhereto_ matched him with a space to provide him with the facilities and equipment at the Box in Darlington.

Joss’s first film for somewhereto_ will be covering another somewhereto_ project – Mark the Magician (see ‘somewhereto_ do magic’ case study). Joss captured his first footage when Mark was performing at the Open Weekend event at the Metrocentre, Gateshead. This filming will continue as Mark acquires more performing opportunities which provides Joss with more material. Joss filmed his second promo video of Mark Sowerby doing his magic at Sunderland Theatre’s Gala Night.

Speaking about his experiences with somewhereto_, Joss said: ‘somewhereto_ has really opened up a host of opportunities for me around my passion, which is film-making. Not only has the project enabled me to gain access to a space which provides me with all the equipment to make films... but it has also provided me with great film making opportunities by enabling me to attend events and film other somewhereto_ projects!’
